(Source: FSF - Free Software Foundation Europe) Press on: 2016-

06-30 The Free Software Foundation Europe protects users, companies and institutions from technological abuse by promoting the use of Free Software. Now there is a project that protects the code used in Free Software itself and promised to preserve it for the future: Inria presents the Software Heritage initiative. The importance of software in the modern world cannot be overstated. Software is at the crux of all contemporary technological development and has become essential for all areas of scientific research. Software plays a pivotal role in our daily lives, our industries and our society. Software... ► Full story on wn.com
